

Two Year Postdoctoral Fellowship OCD & Anxiety Group Programming Focus

The Kansas City Center for Anxiety Treatment, P.A. (KCCAT) is pleased to announce an opening for a hard-working and enthusiastic individual to join our busy and uniquely integrated specialty center! Excellent opportunity for an early career psychologist looking to either expand upon or gain extensive mentored experience with OCD, anxiety, mood, and related conditions across the lifespan. Exact duties to-be-determined in conjunction with Fellow's level of prior experience, but between 25-50% of fellowship activities will be focused on developing and providing group-based treatments for OCD and anxiety disorders, including extension of low-cost programming for underserved populations, and research monitoring of group-based services. Ideal opportunity for an individual interested in evidence-based treatment dissemination, programming development and evaluation, and supervision of graduate students. A strong CBT orientation is required; comfort assisting in services for both youth and adults is strongly preferred. Suitable candidates will be organized, self-disciplined, and work well as part of a team-based approach. For a more detailed description of the position and our center, visit www.kcanxiety.com/postdoc/.
